paid out by the City to worldwide banks, according to new figures provided in response to a Freedom of Information request. Sole traders in the City pay an average of £132,150 to the banks to manage their funds, with dividends down to £50,000 in the smallest allotment. However, for larger firms, by the BBC and Tax Justice Network on City pay and payouts to overseas tax havens. The Corporation had asked for information on the number of British banks holding offshore funds, the corresponding overseas tax havens and the amount paid to those overseas tax havens. The £5.7bn City of London exempted for overseas payments includes all fees charged by banks including custody fees. The biggest UK holding of offshore funds is JP Morgan, with £11.9bn taken offshore and fees of £14m in 2012. 'City's dirty secrets' BBC economics correspondent Jillian Lane said: "You'd need all three of the 'mega-corporations' - JP Morgan, Goldman Sachs and Barclays - and the City of London itself - to ask taxpayers for $5bn a year just to give them a bit of profit. "You'd need all three

What's new in Two Inns At Miller's Hollow:

August, 2011 in DVD Review The South Korean mystery film Deja Vu was originally released in 2002 and was a total of $1.48 million at the box office. Fourteen years later and the thriller still holds up enough as a cult film, with a decent DVD release coming last year and now, a collector's edition, Deja Vu Collector's Edition, August, 2011. The back of the DVD package advertises a transfer done in the 4K resolution, although whether that's true has yet to be seen. Studio Cast comes out with August's DVD release of Deja Vu. The picture is sharp, the color is nice, but the DVD doesn't have any extras. In the film, the main character named David Verdi (Samuel L. Jackson) gets into an elevator and sees a woman named Alicia Green (Mary Steenburgen) who was stabbed by her identical twin Kimmy (Kristen Stewart) years before. Alicia dies years later while in David's house, but she appears to him in a dream and attempts to tell him why he shouldn't go to jail. Alicia also reappears on the TV in David's kitchen as the narrator of a movie called "Why is the Blonde Wearing the Cowboy Hat?" This collection is Part One of the series, but when you think of Deja Vu Collector's Editions as a series, Part Two of the release would be titled The Possession of Dr. Rowan and Part Three would be The Uninvited. Prior to bringing The Collector's Edition and The Possession of Dr. Rowan, Deja Vu Collector's Edition Part One contains two quizzes and commercials for the DVD release of the film in which Jackson offers his own commentary (which is a must on any film in his career, don't forget Deja Vu was his last film!). In order to take the first quiz, you are asked five questions about the story and will see if you're seeing Deja Vu for the first time or if you remember the film. I took the quiz and I received a score of 72%. This averages to an 8 out of 10 and I got the points for a 6, although the movie could've been less confusing. The second quiz is the reverse quiz of the first, which is to see if you remember more than the film. It
