683 JACKSON v. THE STATE. 44669. Supreme Court of Georgia.
Decided April 13, 1987. Paul M. Villepigue, for appellant. Darrell E.
Wilson, District Attorney, Michael J. Bowers, Attorney General, Eddie Snelling, Jr., Assistant Attorney General, for appellee. BELL, Justice.
Jacque Jackson appeals from his convictions for murder, burglary, and theft by taking. 1. The evidence shows that the defendant killed his wife. He claimed he was insane when the crime was committed.
Evidence that the defendant had formerly been the victim of sexual molestation and that the defendant had confessed to a friend that he had killed his wife were admitted without objection. The defendant contends that the court erred in admitting his confession and in admitting evidence of his former molestation. We need not address the issue of whether the defendant's

Field of the Invention This invention relates to the formation of a silver-plated copper composition or an article comprising a silver-plated copper composition, and to a process for the production of such a composition or article. 2. Description of the Prior Art Because of its excellent chemical and physical properties, copper has been extensively used in the manufacture of various electrical and electronic articles. For example, copper wiring materials have been used in the production of printed circuit boards, as components of flexible printed circuit boards, and in the production of other electrical and electronic articles. However, in many applications, such as when copper wiring materials are used in printed circuit boards, the provision of a silver-plated copper material is more advantageous than using a mere copper material or a nickel-plated copper material because the conductivity of the silver-plated copper material can be increased by as much as three or four times. In addition, silver-plated copper materials are particularly valuable for use in the internal wiring of printed circuit boards which have a large number of circuit patterns printed on at high density. When a silver-plated copper material is used as a wiring material, it is required that the copper be suitably protected from undesirable migration or diffusion of silver from the silver-plated copper. For this reason, a barrier layer of copper-beryllium alloy or a layer composed of a mixture of copper and a beryllium-base copper sulfide coating is conventionally provided between the copper layer and the silver layer to prevent diffusion of silver from the silver-plated copper material to the copper layer. However, while the provision 0cc13bf012
